PRESERVATION SERIES

Inspired by historic weavings from across the Americas, Pendleton designers work with curators and collectors to select work, establish provenance, and attribute textiles to original weavers whenever possible. Descriptions (drawn from curator notes) refer to the original weavings. Each blanket purchase generates a donation to Native American arts, education and health.

PRESERVATION SERIES: PS01 EARLY NAVAJO (DINÉ) SARAPE, 1800-1850

FEATURED ARTISTS

Each year, Pendleton is proud to work with some of the finest Native American artists to bring you new, inspired designs. Each artist brings their traditions and point of view to the design, which is then woven on the Jacquard looms in our Pendleton, Oregon, mill. These gifted artists expand the tradition which began when the first blankets rolled off the looms in 1909.

BUNKY ECHO-HAWK

American Indian College Fund - Pathway

Bunky Echo-Hawk (Pawnee/Yakama) is a visual and performing artist with provocative, exuberant work exhibited in private collections, galleries and museums throughout the world. He has done design work for non-profit organizations and tribal communities, Vans, and more. He has been designing the Nike N7 collection since 2010. He has painted murals in various tribal communities, towns, and public places, and recently installed a mural in American Airlines Arena in Miami, Florida, the home of the Miami Heat. "My culture is infused in everything I create."

TRACIE JACKSON

American Indian College Fund - Nike N7 - 7 Generations

Tracie Jackson is a Diné artist and designer from Star Mountain in the Navajo Nation. She is a fourth generation artisan. Her family encouraged her to study the traditional art forms of her tribe, and with their support she became a painter, jeweler, beader, and graphic designer. She studied design at the University of Oregon and currently works in Portland, Oregon, designing for the Nike N7 program, her dream job since age 14. "I was taught to get an education and use it to help our Native community, which pushed me to become a designer for N7."

PRESTON SINGLETARY

American Indian College Fund - Raven and the Box of Knowledge

Preston Singletary is an internationally known glass artist who grew up in the Pacific Northwest. His great-grandparents were full-blooded Tlingit Indians. His works explore traditional images and legends of his Tlingit heritage, translated into glass. His artworks are included in museum collections from the National Museum of the American Indian in Washington, DC to the Handelsbanken in Stockholm, Sweden.

SUSANA SANTOS

Legendary Collection - Rodeo Sisters

Apolonia Susana Santos (1954-2006) was a painter, serigrapher, sculptor, writer and activist of Tygh and Yakama ancestry. Her use of rich colors, textures and natural materials created dynamic landscapes with a deep narrative that illuminates historic and contemporary Indigenous life and memory. Susana's artistic prowess and fearless activism were inextricable. She brought a unique, authentic vision to everything she created. Through her writings, public speaking, theater-style marches and art shows, Susana encouraged Native youth and children to always "Remember Who You Are."

DEBORAH JOJOLA

Legendary Collection - Center of Creation

Debra Jojola is an artist of Pueblo of Isleta and Jemez Pueblo heritage. She is a potter, sculptor, curator, lecturer and master printmaker. She is self-taught in fresco. Debra's work shows her strong commitment to reviving lost Isleta Pueblo art techniques, producing designs that use rare iconography used in basketry, ceremonial body painting, weaving and on kiva walls. The original fresco of "Center of Creation" won first place at the SWIA show. "We have a purpose beyond this life. Life is a spiral."

JOE TOLEDO

Legendary Collection - In their Element

Joe Toledo is a native of Jemez Pueblo in New Mexico who currently lives in Tiffany, Colorado. He enjoys working in watercolor because it is "spontaneous and unpredictable." Mr. Toledo mixes soft rainwater with his colors to reflect images from his Jemez Pueblo culture. His works are exhibited in collections in the United States, Canada and Europe.

JIM YELLOWHAWK

Legendary Collection - Buffalo Nation

Jim Yellowhawk grew up on the Cheyenne River Reservation in South Dakota. He is an enrolled member of the Itazipco Band of the Cheyenne River Sioux Tribe, with Onodoga/Iroquois heritage through his mother. He graduated from Marion College, Indiana, and also studied at Columbus, Ohio School of Art and Design. He divides his time between the Black Hills of South Dakota and Golden Bay, New Zealand. His work encompasses many different media, including dance. "Traditional spirituality is woven into my daily life, work, practices and way of being."

ROSELYN BEGAY

Weavers Series Collection - Roselyn Begay

The Pendleton Weavers Series celebrates the artistry of contemporary weavers by interpreting their one-of-a-kind works into Pendleton blanket designs. Roselyn Begay is a Navajo/Dine weaver who lives near Chinle, Arizona. Roselyn has been weaving for over fifty years; some of her earliest memories are of watching her mother at her loom. Her work is available at trading posts and markets in Sedona, Teec Nos Pos, and Ganado.

MARY HENDERSON

Weavers Series Collection - Mary Henderson

Mary Henderson is a Navajo weaver from Sanostee, New Mexico. She is proud to carry on the traditions of her grandmother and mother, who taught Mary to weave when she was 12 years old. Mary has spent 43 years weaving with her mother, aunt, sister-in-law and cousin-sister, teaching and inspiring each other as they work. Her original weavings can be found at the Toadlena Trading Post in New Mexico.

WENDY PONCA

Weavers Series Collection - Morning Cradleboard

Wendy Ponca is an Osage fine artist. Inspired by her heritage, she creates designs that are tactical by intent, offering Nature's protection through elements and symbolism. She brings skills in draping, tailoring, beadwork, jewelry, silk-screen printing, ribbon work, body and textile painting to her contemporary and traditional designs. Her work is in permanent museum collections and current exhibitions. "I do art for history's sake. I want to preserve my traditional culture, while reflecting the signs of contemporary America."

HARVEY PRATT

Warriors' Circle of Honor

Harvey Pratt (Cheyenne/Arapaho) is an Oklahoma artist who works in painting, sculpting, wood carving, bronze, and graphic design. He served with the 3rd Reconnaissance Battalion in Vietnam. He has worked in law enforcement for fifty years and is one of the foremost forensic artists in America. He currently serves as the chairperson of the Interior Indian Arts and Crafts Board, and as a traditional Southern Cheyenne Peace Chief. ### 7 GENERATIONS

"7 Generations" illustrates the past, present and future of the Navajo Nation. The central N7 motif represents the impact of each person (the diamond) on the three generations before and after (arrows). A storm pattern with zigzags of lightning honors heritage. Squared corners echo the Four Sacred Mountains, surrounded by a dazzler design. Steps show the path to overcoming life's challenges. Colors inspired by traditional dyes reflect the southwestern landscape. "7 Generations" was designed by Tracie Jackson (Diné), a 4th generation artisan from Star Mountain currently designing for Nike. See artist bio on page 42. Suede binding.

Nike is committed to getting youth in Native American and Indigenous communities in North America moving so they can lead healthier, happier and more successful lives. Through Nike's N7 Fund, we support organizations that provide sport and physical activity programming to youth in these communities.

7 PEAKS

Innovation meets tradition in a collaborative design with Nike. Seven peaks represent the quest to meet life's goals. Building on the past, growing in the present, and succeeding in the future, seven peaks made of interlocking arrows form a path to rise and succeed. Whipstitch binding.

EARTH BLANKET

From 1896 to 1930, Edward S. Curtis created a photographic record of many Native American tribes west of the Mississippi. This blanket is inspired by a blanket in one of Curtis's photos. A step pattern in the center—known as the mountain design—pairs with geometric patterns spanning the blanket that represent wheat, grass and seed.

ZE788-50474

WATER BLANKET

This blanket is also inspired by a design captured in an Edward Curtis photo. The Water blanket incorporates classic Navajo cultural elements, like the sawtooth lines of the eye-dazzler pattern. A central dragonfly symbolizes the life-giving gift of water.

PATHWAY

Pawnee/Yakama artist Bunky Echo-Hawk saturates his modern design with Pawnee symbology. Red, white, yellow, and black signify the four races of humankind, the four stages of life, the semi-cardinal directions. Black and red parfleche elements alternate with four-pointed stars. A winding path through the blanket's center traces life's journey. See artist bio on page 42.

RAVEN AND THE BOX OF KNOWLEDGE

Designed by Tlingit artist Preston Singletary, the image on this blanket represents Raven, a crafty schemer who outwits an old chief who keeps precious treasures—the sun, the moon and the stars—locked away. Raven steals light and escapes carrying the sun in his mouth. See artist bio on page 42.

GIFT OF THE EARTH

The Hopi people maintain a pottery tradition on the mesas in Arizona, regarding clay as one of the great gifts of the Creator. This blanket draws on the design elements from their brilliant pieces as a testament to learning from the past while moving into the future.

ZE788-53422

NASKAN SADDLE BLANKET

NEW!*BUFFALO NATION

Four buffalo in Red, Yellow, White, and Black gather around a medicine wheel, pointing in the sacred Four Directions. The Lakota people depended on Pte, the bison, for food, clothing, and shelter. Pte were honored as "The Buffalo People." Artist Jim Yellowhawk uses an ancient style to illustrate Mitakuye Oyasmin, or "We are all related": a belief that all living creatures are family, and can live in harmony and peace.

ZL494-53873
Available 03/25

CREATION TURTLE

The Turtle blanket recognizes the Iroquois Confederacy: the Oneida, Seneca, Mohawk, Cayuga, Onondaga and Tuscarora Nations. The Turtle design represents the Iroquois Creation legend of how Skywoman fell to earth and Turtle helped to save her and bring about the creation of the world.

ZL494-50174

RODEO SISTERS

Four women draped in blankets stand in a line in a design by the late artist and activist, Apolonia Susana Santos. Their blankets shine with abalone, quills, small bells and dentalium shells, lifting to reveal moccasins and tooled Western boots. Each hat is uniquely adorned with a band and feathers.

ZL494-53779

CENTER OF CREATION

"We are Earth people, born from our Mother." Isleta elements show life's beginning in a design by Deborah Jojola of New Mexico's Jemez Pueblo. Life grows from Earth, a central bloom releases seeds, scattered by wind, arrows symbolize sovereignty, the Creator-given instructions on how to care for the earth and all its beings.

ZL494-53563

CIRCLE OF LIFE

This blanket honors tribal Elders with four sacred colors representing the Four Directions. The east represents the Sun. The south represents the warmth and vitality of life-blood. The west represents the darkness in the night sky. And the north signifies the purity of snow.

ZL494-50183

IN THEIR ELEMENT

Jemez Pueblo artist Joe Toledo represents Earth, Air and Water "In Their Element." A herd of bison graze on the Earth. A range of mountains towers above the herd, their snowy peaks covered with life-giving Water. Eagle feathers rise to join Earth, Water and Air, carrying Eagle's spirit to a place of strength above the clouds.

ZL494-53452

CELEBRATE THE HORSE

This design is based on a design from the Blackfoot tribe, who called the animal "elk-horse" for its great size. The arrival of the horse changed forever the culture of Native Americans, encouraging migration, trading, herding and hunting.

ZL494-53814

SHARED SPIRITS

This design celebrates commonalities among Native American tribes. The sun, moon, stars, and clouds represent a relationship between the spiritual world and the cosmos. The central image is a sacred circle with a cross, symbolizing the origin of humankind and the sacred Four Directions of life's journey.

XP505 Pillow	16 x 16"   41 x 41cm

TUCSON COLLECTION

The Tucson area was originally home to the Akimel O'otham or Pima tribe. A Pima legend says that from darkness, the Creator emerged. He pulled a magic stick from his heart and formed a ball with its resin that grew into the Earth as he sang, "I make the world...let it go, start it forth!" In this pattern, the magical creation stick brings the Earth, Stars, Moon and Sun from the darkness.

NEW! CRESCENT BAY

Crescent Bay is part of California's 810 miles of ocean coastline. Waves of diamonds represent the waters of the bay, where divers can see an array of sea life. Above the bay floats the marine layer, an inversion created when the cool ocean meets warm air. Sometimes clear, sometimes foggy, the marine layer lingers along the coast, gently dispelling inland heat with the cooling power of the Pacific Ocean. Unnapped, felt bound.

NEW! WARRIORS' CIRCLE OF HONOR

The National Native American Veterans Memorial, at Smithsonian's National Museum of the American Indian in Washington DC, commemorates the service and sacrifice of Native American, Native Hawaiian, and Alaska Native Veterans—past, current, and future. Designed by Oklahoma Artist Harvey Pratt (Cheyenne & Arapaho), the memorial is a place of honor, recognition, reflection and healing for all Native veterans and their families. In Mr. Pratt's "Warriors' Circle of Honor" blanket design (based on the memorial), the Sacred Fire burns at the center of bands of color representing Air, Fire, Water, and Earth. A border of stars and stripes has openings to allow spirits to enter. Four hands wearing feathers of bravery and triumph mark the cardinal directions. Oval shapes echo the museum's Grandfather Rocks. Napped, felt bound.

ZE493-53447

UNITY SONG

Baskets and incised feathers are motifs often found on the Navajo wedding vase, a vessel with two spouts joined by a handle: two becoming one. The vase holds nectar and water. During the Unity Ceremony, each will sip separately, then together, pledging to travel one path. Napped.

ZE494-53746

SHELTER BAY

Shelter Bay sits in the upper corner of the Pacific Northwest, where temperate weather invites wanderers to experience the great outdoors. Luminous directional crosses represent the balanced, harmonious meeting of ocean, bay, land and sky. Napped, whipstitch binding.

ZE477-53718

SPIRIT SEEKER

The quest for knowledge leads the spiritual seeker on many paths. Native Americans from many different tribes go on vision quests. Spirit Seeker celebrates seekers and their journeys with arrows bordering a medallion, the central truth reached by many paths. Unnapped.

ZE493-53660

POINT REYES

The first inhabitants of California's Point Reyes were the peaceful Coast Miwok, who lived in harmony with the seasons. They fashioned highly sought-after trade beads from empty shells, and elaborate crown-style headdresses made from flicker, the long, narrow flight feathers of a birdwing. Unnapped.

BIG MEDICINE

The rare white bison occurs only once in every 10 million births. In 1933, a white buffalo was born in the wild on Montana's Flathead Indian Reservation and was called "Big Medicine" to reflect his sacred power. Many Native American tribes consider the return of the White Buffalo the fulfillment of an ancient prophecy and the beginning of a new era. The seven bison on this blanket represent the seven directions: North, South, East, West, Above, Below and Within. Prayer pipes signify mankind's communication with the Creator. In the center of the blanket, four hands represent the diverse peoples of the world. Napped.

SERAPE | While the serape is now part of both Spanish and Native American textiles, it has roots in the Mexican weaving tradition. Most commonly, the serape is woven of fine yarns that allow it to be lighter in weight than other blankets, with unbalanced stripes of varying widths. Pendleton's version stays true to this classic and historic style, and can serve a multitude of purposes.

NEW! WIND RIDERS

Coyote pauses, ears alert, under the upstretched arms of a flowering Saguaro cactus. Who does she hear on the night wind? Coyote hears the approaching hoof beats of wild mustangs. Stallion, mare and colt ride the wind as they gallop through the camp and splash through the stream, fast and free in the moonlight.

NEW! MOON DANCE

The Menominee tell a tale of Brother Sun and Sister Moon. Brother Sun set out on a long hunt and did not return, causing Sister Moon to worry. She searched far and wide for her brother, waxing and waning for twenty days until she, too, disappeared. But Sister Moon always returns. Her search is portrayed by a cloud-obscured moon dancing gently over water.

SIERRA RIDGE

The Sierra Nevadas are the traditional grounds of many Native peoples. The Sierra Miwok, Mono, Kawaiisu, Northern Paiute and Tubatulabal tribes have lived and hunted here. The Paiutes called its tallest granite peak Tumanguya, or "the Very Old Man." Also called Mt. Whitney, it is the highest point in the contiguous United States. The mountains of the 400-mile range are represented by stepped peaks, with arrows guarding the streams and rivers of the Great Basin watershed.

BASKETMAKER

The Yavapai, or People of the Sun, lived long ago in central Arizona. Yavapai weavers made baskets that were so tightly woven, they could hold water. These light yet strong baskets were as beautiful as they were useful for storage, transport, even cooking. Basket making is similar to jacquard weaving, with strands of many colors creating vivid patterns. Diamond shapes and patterned bands work together to reflect the intricate and timeless art of Yavapai basketry.

WYETH TRAIL

In the Iroquois legend of the Three Sisters, beans, squash and corn grow together, thriving through the Native American practice of companion planting. Today, pure strains of Native crops are hard to come by. Seed Saver banks in Decorah, Iowa, and Tucson, Arizona, store precious seeds from long ago plants. In the harmonious colors of ancient corn varieties, a balanced pattern of rows echoes the ancient gardens, with arrows pointing in two directions, towards the past and the future.

SONORA

The Sonoran Desert is the largest and hottest desert in North America, with a mystical landscape that features the rare and unique plant life that's adapted to the harshness of the climate. Peaks and hooks represent these botanical wonders. The long-armed Saguaro cactus stretches its arms to the desert sky, along with Sonora's other spiny, spiky cacti; organ pipe, cholla, prickly pear, fish hook and more.

BRIDGER

The pattern is named for a famed explorer, trapper and scout in the 1800s. Jim Bridger was part of the second generation of mountain men who followed Lewis and Clark's Corps of Discovery journey in 1804. His Rocky Mountains expeditions took him from southern Colorado to the Canadian border.

PLAINS STAR

Great Plains Native Americans used an eight-pointed geometric star on hide paintings, tipis, beaded moccasins and clothing, with each point corresponding to one of the planets that shine as the Morning Star. The Lakota Sioux have translated their heritage of painted buffalo robes into intricate and dazzling quilts featuring this motif. Using muted colors that echo the original painted hides, the Morning Star rises, promising a new day.
